CUSD board closes Palo Colorado School over vehement parent protest

"I refuse to send my children 20 miles down that treacherous road to school each day...if it means going to jail!" declared Robert Muson at Monday's CUSD board meeting.

"It is completely irresponsible for the board to close a school that is a couple of miles away and bus children down past Hurricane Point to Captain Cooper School," said a distraught mother, Ellen Wilde.

Lila Baker of Palo Colorado Canyon was almost in tears as she said, "I have only three children who can never be replaced...I won't send them out on that winding, curving dangerous road each day!"

Acting over the wishes of an unanimous group of parents protesting the proposed closing of the one room school at Palo Colorado Canyon, the school board vote resulted in a tie, according to the Chairman Steven Sassoon; this automatically defeated the motion by Hilton Bialek to retain the facility as an attendance area school for local children. (Bialek and Newton voted to keep the school open, Sassoon and Wilsdon voted no, and Clayton Neill was absent.)

Superintendent Harris Taylor had recommended to the board that the one room school be closed. In an earlier meeting the board had changed the school boundaries to transfer the Palo Colorado children to Captain Cooper School, 20 miles south at Big Sur for grades thru four, and be given a choice of Capt. Cooper or Middle School for grades five and six. At that time, however, it was stated that this would not necessarily result in the closing of the facility.

DIFFERING OPINION

Although the action on the school was begun, the board admitted, because of a petition from parents requesting a change, it was obvious that no one wanted the school changed, there was only dissension in choice of personnel.

There was also a definite clash of opinion over the merits of education doled out in the one room school, as opposed to the larger plant.

Supt. Taylor stated that the one room school was not efficient. It rdquired an absolutely top teacher and he felt it was a waste to have such an instructor for 20 or 25 children when she (or he) could put the talent to influencing 120. He said his decision was also based on the lack of library facilities and the coast water problem.

Members of the audience, many of whom appeared to have been involved in education at the elementary or college level, were in disagreement with this decision.

Stated one woman, "This is a small integral community and the climate of education provided in this school is exceptional. My children have benefited from association with other grade levels in this school."

Kitty Bayless, wife of Carmel City Clerk Hugh Bayless, said that she had bussed her child ll miles to the school because she felt it provided the best education possible in the district.

Alex Connell, a Canyon resident, repeatedly asked the board specifically WHY they were closing the school. She said parents had been assured the school would be open this winter, and it was only since the matter of teacher personnel had been raised that it now was singled out for closure.

PROMISES

Speaking at recess, Mrs. Connell told the Outlook that parents had been promised in July that there would be two teachers at Palo Colorado in the fall...one to handle special students, (of which there are a number from throughout the district,) and another for the regular pupils from the adjacent attendance area. Then this was changed, she said. Her husband added that the water problem, which was continually raised as a reason for closing the plant, had been investigated by an engineering firm which stated that an expenditure of $1,500 would solve it.

Supt. Taylor told the board that the district would save $15,000 by closing the school.

WHERE IS SAVING?

Norman Godbe, chairman of the parents' group, questioned the validity of the figure since it would cost close to $5,000 to bus the children down the coast and the remaining teacher's salary of $10,000 would be paid anyhow, since the teacher would not be fired from the district.

A wild reaction rose from the audience when Supt. Taylor said, "The school cannot possibly accommodate enough students 8 or 10 years from now... why not close it now?"

"We're not worried about 8 or 10 years from now," they wailed. "We're concerned with now!"

Robert Muson, questioned the result if the school were not used as such. According to him, the deed stated that it reverts to the owners or heirs in the event of its not being used as a school house.

Taylor said it would be used for something...and Mrs. Connell returned with "Isn't that a rather expensive and inconvenient storehouse?"

Dr. Newton, who retires from the board after this meeting, said in his seven years with the board he had never faced a more complex matter with no clearcut solution, but he thought that the action eliminating Palo Colorado as an attendance area school was ill-advised.

The meeting was adjourned by Chairman Sassoon over the objections of the audience, who left promising that the matter was not yet settled as far as they were concerned.

EDITORIAL

Researching Carmel Valley history...who will help?

The coming 1969-70 Monterey Bi-Centennial which is beginning to spotlight local history, offers Carmel Valley a fine reason for researching and recording its own history.

CV Chamber of Commerce President Tom Bottaro was wondering out loud the other day whether there might be some history-interested people, who have spare time to dig into the history of the area. It's a fine thing for the Chamber to encourage, to broaden its base of general-interest and service to local residents.

Architect Robert Stanton of Carmel Valley, chairman for Monterey County's Bi-Centennial celebration during the coming two years, is in favor of Carmel Valley efforts in this direction.

A. Boyd Mewborn of Pebble Beach, president of theMonterey History and Art Association, also would like to see interest generated by the Valley in its history. His long-active group is not organized with sub-committees specializing in local-interest areas, but he sees this as a possibility.

"Our charter refers to 'California history'," he said, "so our interests are wide-spread. Our first concern has been Monterey and such things as its adobes, but we are not narrow-minded in this sense and would certainly welcome participation of all groups."

The State of California Century 3 Commission is beginning to crystalize a major celebration of Spanish-California history. Formal activities will begin in San Diego next year with a cavalcade retracing Padre Junipero Serra's mission-founding footsteps up California. Climax will be June 3, 1970, the 300th anniversary of the day Father Serra planted the Spanish flag and the Cross on what is now Monterey's Presidio. Interest is also very special in Padre Serra, because he died in Carmel in 1784, and is buried there.

And so it's a great moment to look back at the history—at the people and their life in long-ago Carmel Valley. Any volunteers for the satisfying fun of delving into the old-times are invited to contact Pres. Bottaro or The Outlook.

PERSPECTIVE

TO THE EDITOR

Wrong target for angry young man?

TO THE EDITOR, THE OUTLOOK:

Mr. Stephen Welles is angry at the community according to an interview printed in your August 7th edition. From what was reported, I think he has every right to be angry - but he is directing his anger at the wrong target.

A few years ago, a man came to a major community in this county and inquired around as to whether the area was ripe for a fine office building. He was told by many that it was - and built it. He was the only tenant for a very long time.

Turns out that he had asked - for his purpose - the wrong people. He had no indication from businesses which rent office space that they would move to his building.

And in addition, there was much desirable office space standing empty at the time. There simply was no demand for his building. Also, it was in a poor location.

The parallel is exact.

Mr. Welles knocks the community for its lack of response - when just a tiny bit of probing would have brought him the news that a fine theatre with a beautiful physical plant in the area has been having trouble getting response...a community theatre of long-standing has the same problem...and similar problems beset the symphony organization, a performing arts group and several other organizations.

He knocks members of council and commissions for not attending. It is not their job to attend every thing that comes along. Being human, they, like others, attend what interests them.

He knocks, in effect, the tourists. Whatever one thinks of tourists, the tourist business is a $50,000,000 a year activity on the Peninsula and in the county - and supports a lot of "locals" including, apparently, providing whatever support Mr. Welles has had.

He knocks the "culture" of the area, and leaves the impression that he feels simply opening a theatre should result in the "cultured" flocking to him. But a dictionary defines culture as "the act of development". It is incumbent upon him to help the development.

There is a cardinal principle in public relations which cannot be overlooked - and that is, the American people will buy whatever is properly sold. This includes a refrigerator, a bond issue, a President - and yes, a theatre. But - it had better be worth it.

There are other points - such as his theatre's name. Who knows what a "humanist" is? Who goes to theatre to be "educated"?

But the central fact remains: he is directing his anger at the wrong targets. He should be angry at himself for the mistakes he has made - and then be perceptive enough to correct them.

When he says "I feel sure there is an audience here for what we are doing" he may be right. But he'll never get that audience by telling them how stupid they are.

Cordially yours,
Richard Bragg Carmel

The Rhyming Philosopher

INEFFICIENCY

When we were children we made up games,
Built palaces out of sand and mud,
Pretending we all were lords and dames
Or princes born of the royal blood.

But we never needed anyone
Like adults to tell us what to do;
Imagination provided our fun,
And I was king of the courtly crew!

My regal throne was a cabbage crate,
The banker's daughter my playmate queen;
Which brings up a point to illustrate
That the trend of fate is unforeseen.

For our childhood play, though often mad,
Was never more than a kid's device
To make the most of what things we had
The closest approach to Paradise.

Yet later had I brains to court her
Instead of playing drakes and ducks,
I could have wed the banker's daughter
And today be worth a million bucks!

The big-league success story of the Carmel Valley Little League was recounted to Carmel Valley Lions Club at the Wednesday evening meeting at Los Laureles Lodge by George Palmer, president of CV Little League.

He presented the Lions with two trophies, won by the Red Socks, the championship team the last two years sponsored by the Lions.

He told how the local Little League operates and credited the efforts of many hard-working volunteers who together put the organization financially in the black.

With Lions Pres. Lloyd Todd ill, First Vice Pres. Tom Bordonaro presided.

● CV Kiwanis

The unfairness of the Sierra Club's being singled out for punishment by the Internal Revenue Dept. when others including the National Rifle Association are exempt, was pointed out to Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club at its Tuesday noon meeting at Los Laureles Lodge.

Architect James Kramer, past chairman of the local Sierra Club Ventana chapter Conservation committee, said that the Sierra Club's tax exempt status as a non-profit organization had been lifted by the Internal Revenue Dept. after the club had run ads opposing construction of two dams in the Grand Canyon.

The Conservation committee of the Sierra Club is studying the proposed local slope density formula, he said, and favors keeping Carmel Valley's rural atmosphere.

"The Sierra Club is much more than an outing and mountaineering group," Kramer declared. "Its main interest is conservation."

He reviewed its founding in 1892 by naturalist John Muir, its large publishing program, conservation and world-wide outing programs.

Pres. Kevin Walsh of the Kiwanis Club urged members to support the scenic highway concept with letters to officials.

Karl Kunz, Club Membership chairman, announced a drive for new members through August and September.

Welles Theatre meets challenge of 'Streetcar'

Tennessee Williams' plays are a tremendous challenge to any local company of actors. Unfortunately, it usually doesn't come off because the challenge is greater than the capabilities of the actors.

We would say that the production staged by Stephen Welles at the Forest Theatre-in-the Ground is far above that which might be expected by local theatre-goers.

Stanley of "Streetcar Named Desire" as played by Stephen Welles is down to earth, vulgar, explosive and sufficiently animal-like to make Stella's love and attachment for him very plausible. Welles is a serious young actor, to whom the theatre is everything, and this shows in his meticulous attention to detail in action as well as set.

Ig Heniford, who directed "Streetcar" is, according to Welles, a friend, and constant source of encouragement. He is also, obviously a very capable director.

Blanche is played by Beverly Blair, who has been in some TV and film parts and has also been in the Circle production of the "Mikado" and "Oliver" at the Forest Outdoor Theatre. She has spent the past two months with the WHET Workshop and shows a great amount of talent as well as training in her difficult role.

"Streetcar" is not nearly the bombshell that it was when it erupted with all its sex and sordidness on Broadway in 1948. However, the portrayal of Blanche goes far to give a reason for being, compelling for the theatre-goer.

Stella, as Stanley's wife and Blanche's sister was portrayed by Michele LaMothe on the night we saw it. (Joan Swartz alternates with her in the role) She was a woman caught between what she has chosen for her life, and what she knew of her life before...trapped between her sister and her husband...well played.

Several persons double in parts...not so much we feel because Welles could not find enough actors, but rather for the symbolic effect. For example, the doctor who takes Blanche away from reality to her new life at "a farm in the country," is the same person (Nick Souza) who plays Mitch, the man who Blanche hoped would marry her and help her escape from her sordid past and present existence.

The flower seller with her "flowers for the dead" and the nurse who helps take Blanche away are both played by Joan Swartz, who also is Eunice, the woman next door.

The stage is tiny, the set - excellent, the players are well knit in their performance. "Streetcar Named Desire" is not tired and dated as presented at the Forest Theatre. It is well worth attending.

Garden Thoughts

by Salih Mehdy
of the Oleander Garden Shop

Our mirror plant, coprosma repens, was "burned" during last December's cold wave. Until late this spring there was no living tissue above the ground, so it was all cut down to a stub. Three weeks ago we were surprised to witness a spark of life. A small tender shoot was pushing its way up from below the surface, and now it is about four inches long. The same thing happened to our cape honeysuckle, tecomeria capensis.

SECOND BLOOMINGS

Roses can be coaxed into another cycle of bloom if you fertilize them now. You might even get some pretty buds to use in Christmas decorating.

Petunia plants which were set out in early summer may look stringy and shaggy by now. Cut them back gradually, mulch them, and fertilize them. They will spring to vigorous life again; this process can be repeated several times.

GROUP PLANTS

It makes for more pleasant and easier gardening if you group your plants according to their requirements. You know that camellias thrive well in filtered sun and where the soil has generous organic matter in it. Cleyara japonica is a very good companion to camellias; it needs the same conditions. It is flowering now; the flowers are small, creamy in color, with a very pleasant fragrance. After the bloom is over, red berries appear which last thru the winter. This plant came to us from Japan and southeast Asia. It grows slowly to six to eight feet and as wide. It has long arching branches, and would make a good espalier. The new leaves are deep brownish red, something like the new leaves of photinia serrulata. Then the mature leaves become a glossy green, 3-6 inches long.

DYING OUT

While driving along the Carmel Valley Road, you will notice, near the new Baptist Church and Carmel Valley Manor, plants with yellow flowers. This is a primrose (oenothera). Now there is only a small patch of it, but I remember when it used to grow along the road in that area for about two miles. Another plant gem gradually is disappearing from the scene.

This year the buckeye trees lost their leaves very early on account of the rain shortage of last season. Around Sequoia Park, they are still pretty and full of leaves, and blooming now.

TOOL CARE

The president of the Carmel Valley Garden Club, Mr. Lin Sims, passed a word of good advice along to his fellow members. In order to keep your garden tools in good shape and uncorroded by moisture, simply dip them in a bucket full of sand to which crank oil has been added. When you pull out your shovel, hoe or trowel, they will be covered by a thin film of oil which will protect them during storage.

Voters register mornings at Valley library

Anyone who is not registered to vote in the November 5 general election now has that task made easy for them by Mrs. C. L. Underwood who may be found each Wednesday morning between 9 and 12 at the Carmel Valley Library.

To qualify one must have been a resident of the state for a year and ninety days in the county, Precinct 54.

Voters must re-register in the case of a change of name, address, if they wish to change their party affiliation, or if they did not vote in the 1966 General election.

Anyone wishing further voter information is invited to phone Mrs. Underwood at her home, 659-4559.

San Juan show to start Aug. 24

The annual Art Show, sponsored by the San Juan Bautista Chamber of Commerce will be held August 24 through September 8. The exhibit will be at the Mission San Juan Bautista Teaching Center and will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

There will be cash awards offered for entrees in both professional and non-professional groups plus additional purchase awards. The judges will be Jake Lee of Los Angeles, Gene Varda - Sausalito, and Gerald Wasserman - Monterey.

Entry blanks are available for artists who wish to participate. Requests may be addressed to San Juan Bautista Art Show, P:O. Box 367, San Juan Bautista, California.

Play review

'Bad Children' entertains kids..and parents too

"In lots of plays for children, the kids get bored, but not this one," was the comment of a 12 year-old who always helps review them. She had just seen "The Bad Children" at White Oaks Theatre.

"This one is short enough, funny enough and good enough that nobody got antsy and wanted to run around. Besides that, parents should like it too."

A nine year old made the comment - 'The witch's make-up was really good...maybe kids who might be going to be bad won't do it if they see the play. The father was funny, but I felt sorry for him, 'cause he had awful children," he added.

The comment about adults enjoying "The Bad Children" - as well as the younger theatre crowd, is certainly true.

Although the play is admittedly geared towards an audience of 10 or over, we felt it reached younger and older viewers as well.

Good triumphs over evil in a hilarious battle of wits between a young college-educated witch (Mary Wardrum) and an old-guard self-taught wizard, (John Logan). Into their woodland glen, trip two ghastly brats, Susie (Chichi Gierlach) and Henry (Tony Willis) accompanying their disgusted and very weary parents (Jean Prejean and Malia Elliott) on a foraging trip, hunting for firewood for their barbecue pit.

It is a modern satire on Hansel and Gretel, but in reverse, because the witch is a nice witch and the little children are mean and nasty. Their parents do their very best (as in the old fairytale) to leave them behind. Assisting the sorcerer and sorceress are a very helpful rabbit, who allows himself to be turned into a quarter pound of butter long enough to be spread on maple doughnuts, and a kindly dragon from the show biz past life of the wizard. Both animals are Ron Stark, though you wouldn't recognize him.

This is a very tight show; it is fast, funny and well executed with great costuming and sets.

We would recommend it as good family entertainment, but if the children want to go alone, don't worry about them being bored...they won't be.

"The Bad Children plays every Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. -GD

Tapestry show to end

The exhibition of the Hurschler collection of contemporary European tapestries now at the Carmel Museum of Art will end Sunday, August 18. Demonstrations of tapestry weaving and spinning by local craftsmen will be given in the gallery from 3 - 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Watercolor show Sat. at Sunset

Adult students of the Watercolor Workshop conducted by Helen B. Dooley will display their paintings in an exhibit Saturday, August 17, in the cafeteria room of Sunset Center, from 7 - 9 p.m.

Students, whose work will be shown, range from beginners to advanced and professional painters. Their paintings, which were done on location, reflect the landscapes of this area. Subjects include trees, hills, boats, panoramic views, rocks and ocean, and city streets in Monterey.

The paintings represent one week of concentrated work in water color.

While students exhibiting are mainly from Carmel and Pacific Grove, some have come from Aptos, Morgan Hill and Santa Cruz.

The public is invited to the exhibition and refreshments will be served.

SOUTH SEAS TRIP

At home on Calle de Agrinemsors reliving pleasant memories of a recent forty-three day cruise of the South Seas is Mrs. Dorothy Gonzenbach. Traveling on a Matson Liner where she found shipboard cuisine to be incomparable, Mrs. Gonzenbach stopped at such ports as Borra Borra, Papeete, Moorea, Australia and New Zealand. Finding the people of Australia so very friendly, the resident of Robles del Rio had many regrets that she had not planned to extend her stay there and in her favorite spot of the trip, New Zealand.

HOUSE GUESTS

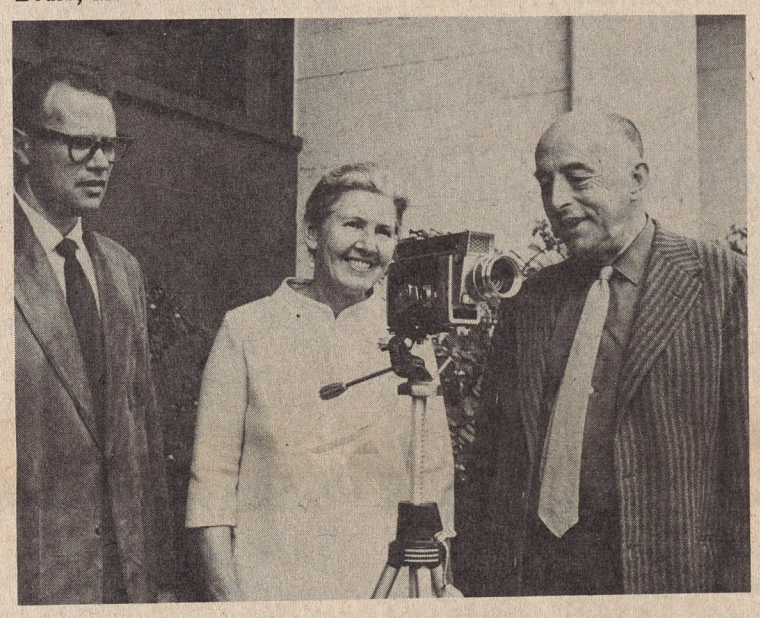
Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bolgard are enjoying visits from the houseguests who have stayed at their La Rancheria home this summer. During the month of July they welcomed Mrs. Kurt Christiansen, a relative of Irma's whose home is in St. Louis, Missouri. Next to arrive from Inglewood was Clifford's sister, Mrs. Lorraine Jack. She was joined later by her fiance, Richard Doty, of Garden Grove.

During Mrs. Jack's two week stay she was honored with a Coffee by Mrs. Joe Blacow of La Rancheria. Among those attending were Mrs. James Clark, Mrs. Elbert Wade, Mrs. Peter De Haas, Miss Barbara Wade, and Mrs. Clifford Bolgard.

FORMER VALLEYITES

Former Valleyites Peggy and Huby Jones (who have called Kai lua, Oahu, Hawaii home for the last three years) made a brief stop in the Valley last week enroute to becoming Texans. Huby has retired from the Navy and they will make their home in Dallas.

Accompanying their parents were Ricky, Jean Ann and Laurie. Son Mike, a member of the championship Hawaiian base ball league, was to meet the family in Disneyland following play with his team in Seattle.



"ALL THE EXCITEMENT COMES from a camera" agree the judges of the forthcoming first Annual Monterey Independent Film Makers Festival to be held at the Monterey Public Library on August 29, 30, and 31 at 8 p.m. Entries of 16 mm., 8 mm. and super 8 film are due on or before August 16. The jury members above are Thomas Graff, Carmel's Village Theatre; Mrs. Romaine Wetmore, Cinema 6, Monterey; and Ralph Geddis, Tantamount Theatre, Carmel Valley. (Photo by Roger Fremier)

Doris and John Mark arranged an impromptu reception for the Jones family at their home high o'top Robles del Rio. Dropping in during the evening were Toy and Bob Beckstrom, Mrs. John Woods and daughter Barbara, Mrs. Donald Brill, Mrs. Margaret Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bresk.

BIRTHDAY

To be eight years old MUST be the greatest age of all, according to David McKenzie who had "Happy Birthday" sung to him on three very special occasions. David, accompanied by his sister Diane, was the guest of honor at a dinner party given at Will's Fargo by Dona McKenzie and Helyn Crow. The highlight of the dinner there and at the Danielson Barbecue was having "Happy Birthday" dedicated to him.

On Tuesday at the Lupin Lane home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKenzie, David was host to a group of playmates at a barbecue luncheon. Games, gifts, and baseball were on the agenda for the guests who included: Steve Ortman, Brett Gayman, Greg Gladden, Weegie Matthews, Mike Ortman, Steve Draper, and David's sister Diane.

FRIENDSHIP BOX

"An Oak-leaf Cluster" to the Cub Scouts in Den 4 Pack 75 who sent a big box of 'friendship' on its way to Vietnam. After reading the plea, in one of the local newspapers, of Serviceman R. L. Sinkey for items which he would distribute to the Vietnamese children, the Cubs ran errands to earn meony and dipped into their allowances to purchase tooth paste, tooth brushes and soap. They also collected a large assortment of clothing in good condition. Participating in the project were Gordon White, Jackie Willson, Nickie Longfellow, Geoffrey Lee and Mark Hansen.

CARMEL...

ROBINSON JEFFERS' Hawk Tower has been a landmark on Carmel Point since it was completed in 1925. When Jeffers first built Tor House and Hawk Tower, the point was completely barren. Now the tower can be seen poking its roof up through the many pines which the poet planted in the early 1920's. (Robert Isaacs photo)

ACROSS FROM the Carmel Mission Basilica is a tiny cottage, reminiscent of the British Isles. Its roof was thatched with straw imported from Norfolk, England, by a thatcher who learned the art from his father in Donegal, Ireland. Be sure and notice this quaint bit of Carmel charm when visiting the Mission. (Robert Isaacs photo)

Outdoor art show planned in Carmel Valley Aug. 24-25

Strolling musicians and refreshments will add to the gala atmosphere of art under the oaks to be shown by members of the Carmel Valley Artists' Cooperative Saturday and Sunday August 24 and 25.

The exhibit will be displayed in the shaded area between the Co-op Gallery and the White Oak's Gallery and will especially feature the work of Lucile L. Herbert. Other members will also show examples of their work and all will be present to meet the public.

Mrs. Herbert, a native Californian, is known for her seascapes and landscapes of this area. She has studied with local artists Clarence Bates, Feg Murray, Kay Rogers, Bennett Bradbury and Nancy Johnson. Her earlier education was at Castilleja School in Palo Alto, Stanford University where she majored in art and was graduated Magna Cum Laude, and at the California School of Fine Arts in San Francisco.

Pacific Grove Museum exhibits Eskimo art

A collection of Eskimo graphic art makes up the special exhibition for August at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History.

Four years ago the museum brought to the Peninsula the first showing of this new Eskimo art form created from sealskin stencils and stone cuts.

Limited editions of the new Eskimo art were first made available to the outside world in 1959. They originated at Cape Dorset, Baffin Island in the eastern Canadian Arctic. The success was instantaneous with every print being sold. Since that original attempt, the art has flourished.

The prints are of pure Eskimo experience with demons, myths and free imagination making up the subject matter.

monterey JAZZ festival

Lalo Schifrin, the youthful composer-conductor-pianist from Argentina, whose musical activity ranges from jazz to the classics, will conduct his "Jazz Suite on the Mass Texts" at this year's Monterey Jazz Festival, which takes place September 20, 21, 22.

Schifrin's "Jazz Mass", as it has come to be called, will be presented during the Festival's Sunday afternoon concert, September 22, with an 18-instrument orchestra consisting of a brass choir, a percussion section, two harps and a jazz quintet. Supplementing the orchestra will be a 40-voice chorus.

Tom Scott will be featured on alto saxophone and various flutes in the Schifrin work.

This marks the third appearance of Lalo Schifrin at the Monterey Jazz Festival. The powerful "Jazz Suite on the Mass Texts" was written by Schifrin in 1964 on commission from RCA Victor and jazz soloist, Paul Horn. Schifrin's "Jazz Mass" marked the first time portions of the Catholic Mass had been set to jazz and sung in English on a recording after the Ecumenical Council decreed that the Catholic Mass did not have to be celebrated in Latin.

Since his years with Gillespie, Schifrin has made his home in Southern California and has composed many motion picture and television scores for which he has been honored with Oscar and Emmy nominations and several Grammy awards. He has been guest conductor of his own works with many orchestras both in this country and abroad. His exciting music for television's "Mission Impossible" series, in addition to winning two Grammy awards, became a best-selling LP.

Also scheduled to appear during the Sunday afternoon concert at the Eleventh Annual Monterey Jazz Festival, will be "A Generation of Vibers", a presentation by major jazz vibraphone artists, including Milt Jackson, Cal Tjader, Gary Burton and other vibraphonists.

Other jazz artists announced for the three-day, five-concert weekend are: the Vince Guaraldi Trio, Mel Torme, Count Basie and his Orchestra, the Oscar Peterson Trio, the Gary Burton Quartet, Carmen McRae, the Gabor Szabo Quintet, the Modern Jazz Quartet, Tom Scott, Cal Tjader, Billy Eckstine, the Dizzy Gillespie Quintet, Muddy Waters, B. B. King, Big Mama Willie Mae Thornton, Jimmy Rushing and Jimmy Witherspoon.

The work is in eight sections: Kyrie, Interludium, Gloria, Credo, Sanctus, Prayer, Offertory, and Agnus Dei.

Mrs. Tom Bordonaro of Aliso Road. Virginia's special co-pilot who was her travelling companion, - her eighty-year-old grandmother Mrs. Demer Tramell of Moscow, California, -enjoyed especially the visits with family and friends in her native Texas.

They were guests of Virginia's sister and family who live near Paris and accompanied them on a 4-day camp-out to a lake where the Bordonaro children - John, Tommy and Snadra and guest Brian Riddell all learned to water ski. The Valleyites also explored Las Vegas , Grand Canyon, Carlsbad Caverns and New Mexico's Painted Desert.

PINATA PARTY

A giant bird pinata, center of attention at the birthday party of 8-year-old Gladys Zarazua last week, spilled candy and prizes for the guests when it was broken. The pretty pinata and colorful paper chains decorating their home were made by Gladys' sisters Albertina and Blanca. Red, green and orange balloons, a 'Snoopy birthday cake' , games, gifts and refreshments entertained the guests - Cynthia Platter, Jenny Mink, Scarlett Hattan, Sharon Hogan, Tanya Radowitz. John Stevenson assisted. Gladys is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aquilino Zarazua.

GRANDDAUGHTERS' VISIT

Four little granddaughters from Olive Branch, Mississippi, made this summer a memorable one for Mr. and Mrs. Peter De Haas at their home on Loma Lane. Jean and Peter's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Phillips with Kathy, Pamela, Cheryl and Patricia flew into San Francisco from Memphis.

The girls who had been singing "California Here I Come" on their first flight west landed in San Francisco and their first question was "Where are the Golden Gates?"

Included in their busy three week stay was a visit to Disneyland, Marine Land, the Board Walk at Santa Cruz, the trip out of Felton on the narrow gauge railroad, and the Salinas Rodeo. A note from Mississippi contained the admission that they are finding it hard to readjust to 90 degree temperatures with 90 degree humidity!

JAPANESE GUESTS

Guests have to have reservations well in advance at the busy home of Cmdr. (ret.) and Mrs. William Stowers on Country Club Drive. Visiting recently from Dallas, Texas, were Bill's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Rice Jr. who enjoyed four days of golf at Pebble Beach and Spy Glass Hill and the Bach Festival.

Their trip coincided with that of more cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boruck from Oakland, who were accompanied by their exchange student from Japan, Kenjie - a young man whom they are hosting while their own daughter Cynthia is living with a family in Japan. Also making the trip from Oakland were Mr. and Mrs. Witzer, - and their Japanese guest Taeko.

Ruth and Bill Stowers took their 'Japanese daughters' -- Aiko Yajima and Hiroko Kobayashi, and their many other guests to the Salinas Rodeo, followed by a dinner at the Presidio. , and a performance at the First Theatre where the Japanese guests were introduced and received a standing ovation.

The Stowers so thoroughly enjoyed their experience with the girls from Japan that – to quote Ruth, "Our home seems very lonely and we wish that we were just starting the three weeks all over again."

The most rewarding remark made by their guests as relayed by one of their directors was the answer to his question, "What part of your visit did you enjoy the most of all?" Her reply, "When we sat with our 'parents' around the table after dinner and talked - because it was heart to heart."

The girls had requested to learn how to cook some REAL American dishes so they were taught how to bake an apple pie, fry chicken and make beef stew. They also delighted Ruth by taking BACK to Japan her recipe for Teri-yaki! The most difficult part of their shopping was to find souvenirs for them to take home that were stamped 'Made in USA' and not 'Japan'!

ON THURSDAY night, all the youngsters joined in a camp-out at the school grounds. They cooked dinner outdoors, gave skits around the campfires and slept outdoors. Everyone joined in and helped. Making hamburger balls for the stew are (left to right) Matin Wise, Sabina Rico, Linda Gardner, Amy Brock and Mary Ann Gawaine. Tony Atkinson in the background.

SHIRL COPE supervises the onion cutting. Breezes blew the tear-making odors away from Linda Gardner and Artessa Williams, but down wind it was potent.

CHILDREN OF MANY BACKGROUNDS

For the past two weeks, 50 children between the ages of eight and eleven and a half have been gathering on the grounds of All Saints' Episcopal Day School on Carmel Valley Road for the daily sessions of the Camp Amigos Day Camp.

There have been two separate one-week sessions, each made up of 25 children, mainly from Carmel and Carmel Valley, and 25 from various areas in Seaside. Understanding of one's fellowman has been the main objective of the camp which brings together many children of many different cultural backgrounds.

Although St. Dunstan's and All Saints' Episcopal Churches have been the sponsors of the project it has been a community effort involving principals of schools in both districts and others who have been interested in helping provide a rewarding opportunity for all the youngsters.

It is not in any sense of the word a "church" camp, although the two involved have raised funds for the program and lunches have been prepared in the kitchens of the two churches.

Camp Amigos has been under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Albert. He is the football coach at Monterey High School. "Coach and Mrs. Coach" have been assisted by young counsellors from both areas.

Crafts, sports, creative endeavors, camping music, art and field trips have taken up much of the time. Each child has learned much from each of the others and it appears obvious that race, color and creed provide no barrier for these busy youngsters.

Committee members who planned the innovative day camp are hopeful that the highly successful program may be expanded next year and developed more fully in the years to come.

COACH DAN Albert showed David Banks where another stone was needed for the campfire ring.

FIELD TRIPS were made by the day campers to the Carmel Valley Community Pool. Margaret Sciarretta (right) gave a group of youngsters some pointers on swimming while they were at the pool. Other trips were made to Carmel Beach where some children who had never been there before had a marvelous time splashing at the water's edge and playing in the sand.

EDWARD HALL and Mark Porch took time off for basketball dribbling.

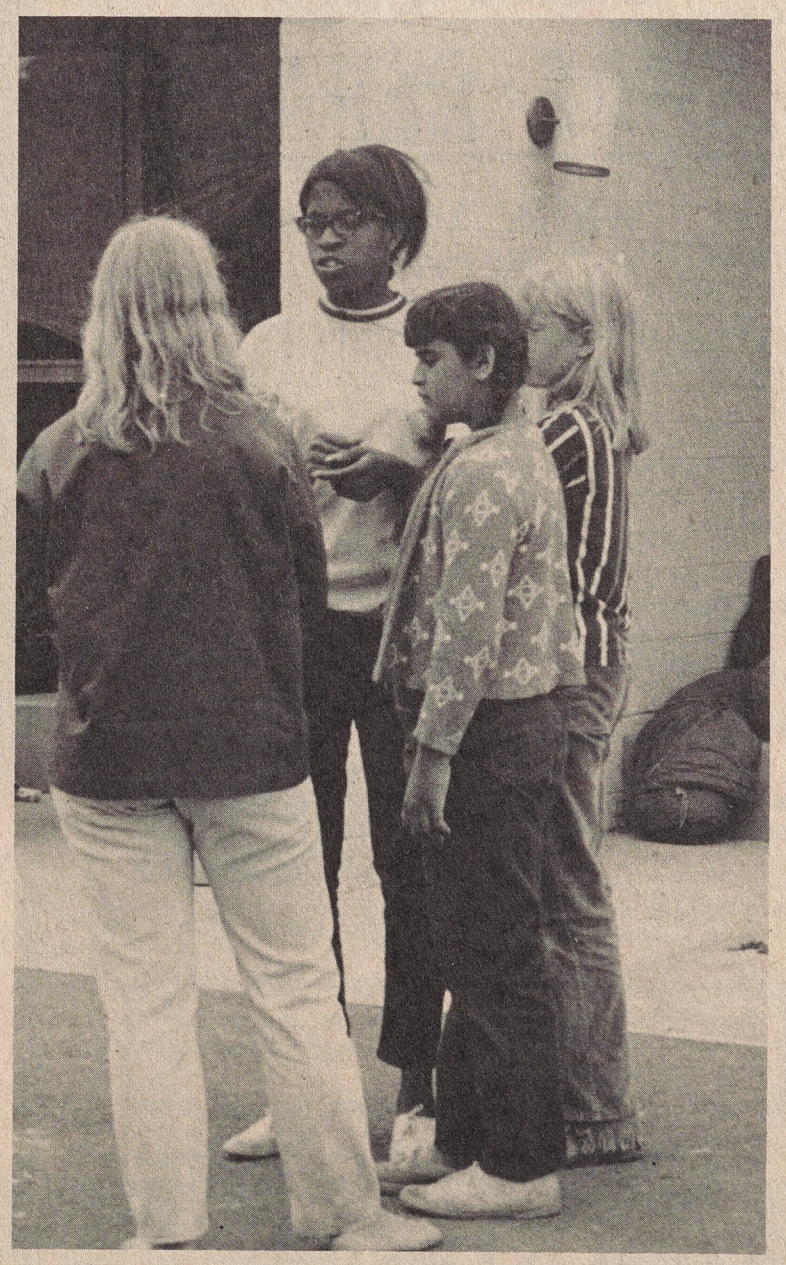
SKITS WERE prepared in the afternoon by each group of campers to be presented at the evening campfire. Counsellors Ann Yant (left) and Wanda Allen (right) pantomime the opening of a door with campers Georgette Winston, Lorraine Ruffin, Melissa McNinch and Auburn Albert.



TINA SCHARER (back), Clarice Beene, Darlene Dias and Gretchen Smith got away to plan their skit in private. Sleeping bags, guitars, and warm jackets were piled on the steps behind for the evening camp-out.

Mary Clark adds ice cream parlor

Expansion of Mary Clark's Gift Confections-in-Wax store in Carmel Valley Village is under way with addition of an ice cream parlor.

Joining Mrs. Mary Clark Johnson in the firm is Daniel J. Hurlbert, who recently completed six years' service in the Army as a sergeant.

He is in charge of the new ice cream section of the store at Carmel Valley Rd. and Pilot Rd. and also will assist with plans to develop further the growing mail-order part of the candy business.

Hurlbert sees the possibility of expanding the unique confections-in-wax into a multi-store operation.

"I feel very privileged to represent Mary Clark's wonderful products and hope to grow from Carmel Valley to various points East," he commented.

Grand opening of the ice cream section, which will feature "Cecil's Old-fashioned Ice Cream", is scheduled this Saturday and Sunday.

Hurlbert is from Antigo, Wisconsin, and comes from a family with a background in the restaurant and food business.

"The beauty of this area, the warmth of the people we have met and their encouragement, indicated that this was the place to make our home," he added. Hurlbert and his wife Mary have a son, Ken.

The nuclear powered toaster.

Look familiar? It should. There's one in your kitchen right now. Nuclear power has been helping you make your morning toast for the past ten years.

As time goes on, nuclear-electric power will be filling more and more of your energy needs. It's the efficient, clean, low-cost power of the modern age. And it assures plenty of electricity for our high energy society of the future. The same kind of electricity you're now using in your nuclear-powered toaster.
